

The Loch Ness monster

This myth was in the village. An old man wanted to swim in the lake, but when he went to the lake he saw a big, ugly, angry monster. It was dark green, covered in water plants and with sharp teeth. He was very scared and went back to the village. He told all of the villagers, and because it was a long time ago and people trusted the old man, they believed him. The next day he saw a woman swimming in this lake and he saw the Loch Ness monster behind her. He wanted to help her, but the monster was next to her and was already attacking her. He was not scared though and he saved her. All of the villagers were shocked to see the monster and the woman thanked him for saving her. This is the myth of the Loch Ness monster.
